Advisory

From: Johnny Diloné, 602-506-6611
Date: 1/14/2009
Re: Salmonella outbreak linked to Peanut Butter

Arizona is part of a multi-state outbreak of Salmonella typhimurium that may be linked to eating peanut butter.

Federal, state and local authorities are currently investigating the outbreak.

Please see Links below for updates on this investigation; information on Salmonella, as well as for FDA and CDC recommendations until the source of this outbreak has been determined.

http://www.fda.gov/oc/opacom/hottopics/salmonellatyph.html

http://www.cdc.gov/salmonella/typhimurium/