PROMO VIDEO

Voices from the COVID Impact Survey:

“I was a Registered Nurse for 32 years and had to retire because of Systemic Lupus. I was unable to work along my fellow colleagues to help during the Pandemic. I REALLY wanted to learn about the disease process as a disease I'd never dealt with. But, mostly to work frontline in such a time so devastating to our world and community.”

[NW, 55-64, Caucasian/White]

Voices from the COVID Impact Survey:

"I'm a nurse and I didn't get a break from working during the pandemic. My work hours were cut, but I still dealt with fear of exposure, fear of exposing others, and getting yelled at for simply being a nurse. Instead of getting thanked, like everybody else, I was accused of spreading the virus simply because I was wearing my scrubs or my mask."

[SE, 45-54, American Indian/Native American]

Voices from the COVID Impact Survey:

"I worked as a nurse during the COVID-19 pandemic and myself and many of my coworkers are suffering mentally with everything from the last year. It's strange to say PTSD when talking about our job, but many of us have sought out mental health help and needed medications to deal with everything. I don't know that I will ever be able to not cry when I think about or speak about my experience."

[PHX, 25-34, Caucasian/White]

Voices from the COVID Impact Survey:

“Even as someone who has remained employed, at an above average salary, I cannot afford the copays required for frequent doctor visits, let alone dental care and mental health care. I have had many chronic symptoms for months that sound like long COVID-19 but just can't afford to get thoroughly checked out.”

[PHX, 35-44, White/Caucasian]

Voices from the COVID Impact Survey:

“Most therapy is telemed, making it difficult to build rapport and have safe space to discuss. Most therapist are not taking new clients.”

[NE, 25-34, Asian]
